JACKIE ROBINSON

Dear Kivie,

I am glad Emily is doing better. I hope she continues to improve and will take it easy until she is completely well.

The problem Kivie is the association seeks help but what are they willing to do in return. There was not a more devoted man until I began to see the desire is for personal gain, not for the good of the masses. The pettiness of some of the members and the unwillingness to change for the good of all.

Kivie the shame is an organization with the ability the NAACP has feels as it does. The association has lost its chance to be respected by the overwhelming majority. You can't be petty and be big. The association will never be big with little me at its head. We have talked about all of this before. I am sorry to feel as I do but I am at least honest enough to know there cannot be strength in a group that is beset with problems of inferiority and fear. There is no need for it but it exist and seemingly nothing can change it. I hope all our thoughts can be kept from the public but it probably wont.

I still feel you are a real credit you have worked hard and deserve the "honor" of being president. I only wish there were more people as dedicated.

Sincerely

Jackie
