Stratford. Dec. 7. 1767.

As I am extremely desirous of promoting the Study of Hebrew in these Countries, which ^{is} now so much cultivated, & the favorite Study among the truly Learned in England, & indeed throughout Europe, I have for that End composed this little Grammar, a Copy of which I presume, tho' unacquainted, to send you for the Library of Harvard College. — And if you are not already acquainted with it, I would beg leave earnestly to recommend to your Use Mr. Parkhurst's Lexicon, which you see here advertised in the last leaf, which would render this Study not only very easy, but also very useful ~~and that Easiest Introduction~~ ^{to} parts I. & II. here advertised, would be the best praxis for yr Pupils to begin with. — With my best Compliments to Mr. President Holyoke & ~~the~~ ^{the} Professors Winthrop & Wigglesworth, I am Sr yr most humble Serv^t.

Sa. Johnson.

To Mr. Professor Sewel.
